The Editor's Column

I've just read Fred Bechdolt "hazarding an answer" to the question, "What in the hell ails us human beings anyhow?" I, too, have asked this same question in exactly those same words.

But Mr. Bechdolt, you did not answer the question, you merely reiterated the facts, and I'm disappointed. Won't you try again?

You have rightly concluded that man has arrived at a highly organized state of barbarism, instead of civilization. But somehow, my thinking sees mankind in a different way.

To be sure, man in his basic impulses, is no different underneath his sciences, machinery and dividends, than when all he had was instinct, a club and a cave. His only difference is in outward appearances and a moderate control of his impulses. But give him a set of circumstances, push him hard enough, and he'll react the same in 1946 as he did in the year 46.

What is civilization anyway? The average individual has the hazy notion that it makes man immune to barbarism; that he has been educated, refined or cultured away from it. But when we read our daily headlines reporting man's inhumanity to man, we know that men have a long way to go before the hangover of barbarism is eradicated.

That much of the world has become literate is no criterion of civilization. Man has merely discarded club, cross bow and cave, for more deadly modes of fighting and more delightful ways of living. And this would seem a natural evolution, for the rapid increase in population demands a faster method of destruction.

Suppose men still murdered each other only with clubs? Not being mathematician beyond counting on my fingers and toes, I can't estimate, but if men hadn't devised war to legalize murder, the entire earth might be as thickly populated as Coney Island on a sunny Sunday. In that event we would have starved to death, wouldn't we?

Have you ever asked yourself how far you think people are actually willing to go in their "desire for common decency?" By common decency, I take it, you mean representative and national versions of our own "Four Freedoms," plus the Fortune editorial summary of "man learning to live with man."

A man can enjoy our Four Freedoms, live in common decency, and still not be able to live comfortably with a neighbor who is a petty thief and liar. No man has neighbors who are all perfect. Therefore he must endure much to live in decency. There are times when it cannot be done peaceably, and this applies, not only to one man, but to a nation, as we should have learned long ago. And here man will show what social progress he has made since the Stone Age, in the way he handles these situations as they arise. Up to now, when worst comes to worse, we simply slug it out. The man or nation with the biggest stick, who

Carmel Carnival Promises To Be A Lot Of Fun

"Hurry, Hurry, Hurry, step right up and present the winning ticket!" On Friday night, September 27th, at 8 p. m., the voice of Mark Keller will roll out across the room at the Mission Ranch Barn, calling the lucky winners up to collect their prizes.

Carmel's Tombola-Carnival is being held to raise money for the Bataan Wing of the Salinas Memorial Hospital. The hospital, which is non-profit, will be erected soon for the benefit of the entire Monterey Peninsula.

Mark Keller, the master of ceremonies, will announce all lucky ticket holders. And you can win from a 1946 Buick sedan, objets d'art and four priceless paintings from the collection of Mrs. Alma DeBretville Spreckles, a refrigerator, electrical appliances, to many other items. Donations have been made from merchants in San Francisco, local merchants, and interested individuals.

The decorations, as mentioned before in this column, are in charge of Manuel Venezuela, of the Discovery Shop, and are being donated by Richard Gump, of Gumps in San Francisco. We understand they REALLY are something!

Your admittance to this night of fun, and your contribution to this cause can be purchased for $1.25! For this you can have a night of games, entertainment, dancing, and a chance at one of the many door prizes donated to the cause. On purchasing an admittance ticket (but you must be present) you have a chance to win one of the 75 door prizes, which include wine, hams, and—HOLD ON Girls—50 boxes of nylons at three pairs of nylons per box!

On your donation of one dollar you will receive a ticket which enables you a chance to win one of the many donations, from the Buick on down. You do not have to be present to win on your donation tickets. Tickets can be obtained from most of the local merchants, or by calling the chairman, Mrs. Marie Spreckles at 548R, or the co-ordinator for the event, Beth Murphy at 1007J.

First of the local contributors to the lists of gifts was John Harley of the Carmel Booksellers— a beautiful Early American glass and mahogany portable buffet-bar,

Carmel Terrier Wins Some More Honors

Champion The Young Pretender of Andely, smooth fox terrier, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Derek Rayne, was awarded best of breed and best terrier in the show at Riviera Kennel Club dog show in Los Angeles last Sunday.

Having previously won the same award at shows at Santa Cruz and Marin County K. C., he now has the distinction of being the only smooth fox terrier to have won three such awards in California. The terrier group usually contains more than one hundred dogs included in the twenty recognized terrier breeds.

Pretender will not be shown at Del Monte show as the Derek Raynes are leaving for Tacoma, Washington, where Derek is judging the dog show which is being held in conjunction with the State Fair.

"The Sheriff Wants Me . . ." Author Gets The Wits Scared Out of Her

By Kippy Stuart

I wasn't prepared for the shock. I had gone peacefully to the postoffice, minding my own business, and received a letter that scared me to death. I had entered the postoffice an innocent citizen; I left that postoffice a potential criminal. This was no ordinary letter. I couldn't toss it into the wastebasket and make believe I had never received it. The letter was from Sheriff McCoy. The thing was registered and I had to sign on the dotted line, so I was stuck with it. All the accumulated guilt of my life came alive. What had I done that brought the sheriff after me? I looked with envy at the innocent folk milling happily around me. Only I was guilty and the sheriff wanted me. With trembling hands I opened the enveloys. If I had been scared by the envelope, panic seized me as I read.

The letter was a printed form. (I supposed that all criminals received printed forms.) My eyes flicked the legal verbiage and concentrated on the typed-in words. There was my name as big as life. I was summoned to appear in Superior Court in Salinas. Typed in was the date: Tuesday, August 20, 1946. I panicked down the page. There typed in, in capital letters, were the words "FOR TRIAL!" Following this was the horrendous admonition: HEREIN FAIL NOT! I was going to be tried for something that escaped me, but the something that escaped me had not escaped the sheriff. All the Who-dun-its I had ever read rose to taunt me. Tales of innocent folk who had been railroaded to the gallows crowded my memory. But, was I innocent? There is an old saw to the effect that "conscience never troubles one unless one gets caught." It is also said that no human being is free from guilt. I seemed to prove that adage for I had already convicted myself. Just what the charge might be was beside the point. If the sheriff didn't get me for one offense, I knew there were plenty more lying around in my past.

Longevity has a way of making a fellow behave himself. The older one gets the less conscience bothers. This is not because we grow better with the years; it is because our devilish proclivities are curtailed. All those delightful scrapes of our youth are impossible to achieve. The oldster eschews adventure because adventure eschews the oldster.

As this thought seeped through my panic, my ego was restored. If the sheriff wanted me, I must have done something spectacular. Maybe I wasn't as old as I thought I was. Had I inadvertently bumped somebody off? Had I upset somebody's garbage can? Had I filched my neighbor's purse,

GETTING AROUND THE PENINSULA

WITH BETH

In colorful religious ceremonies, Monterey fishermen held the annual Feast of Santa Rosalia last Sunday, during which the protection and guidance of the Patron Saint of the Palmero fishermen is invoked, for the local purse seine fleet. This traditional ceremony, interrupted during the war years, began with the celebration of Solemn High Mass at San Carlos Church. A 10:30 breakfast was held at Casa Munras and the traditional parade began at 2 o'clock, when celebrants carried the figure of Santa Rosalie from the church to the Municipal Wharf for the blessing of the fleet. Following the rites, the ships were opened to the public for inspection.

This week, Del Monte Properties Company announced the opening of Subdivision Number 1 in the Del Monte Forest, in the area generally referred to as The Top of the Hill, above Pebble Beach. This is the first new development by the company in several years, and building sites will average 100 foot frontage. In developing this property, the company has constructed roads, made available necessary utilities and installed an adequate sewage system.

The first group of Nisei students to complete the course of training at the Military Intelligence Service Language School at Monterey Presidio were honored in an appropriate ceremony last Saturday morning. Brig. Gen. Frank D. Merrill, chief of staff of the 6th Army, was guest of honor and principal speaker. The graduating class numbered 168 men. The men were told that they were presented with a very great opportunity, that of helping more than seventy million people to establish high standards of living and behavior, so that they will be able to live in peace with the rest of the world.

Carmel had two charming visitors last week in Alvin and Darley Gordon, whose book, Our Son Pablo, published by Whittlesey House, has been receiving rave notices by the critics. They found Carmel an extremely beautiful and unusual place and they hope to visit here again soon. The volume concerns the transplanting of a 21-year-old Indian boy from a primitive mountain village in Mexico into a highly-civilized West Coast community. The Gordons first met Pablo when he became their guide and counselor during the filming of a documentary movie, Mexico Builds a Democracy. The Gordons good neighbor policy was not always an easy one. There was the evening when they found a very different and unfriendly Pablo across the dinner table. Gone were the smiles, the eagerness to please. "Tomorrow when I go to the University, please, I weel take your revolver. Please, I weel keel my professor." How the authors met this and other equally difficult situations makes extremely fascinating reading. The Gordons established a studio in San Francisco, and for seven years they have produced documentary films independently, or for various government agencies. The production of them has taken them all through this country and to Mexico, upon three different occasions.

Purchase Of All Saints' Is Approved

Public response to the announcement made last week that All Saints' Church had been offered for sale to the City of Carmel for use as a town hall and to house city offices has been almost entirely of enthusiastic approval.

The first step toward purchase of the property was taken at last week's council meeting, when members of the audience urged the city fathers to take immediate action. A motion was passed which set the procedure in motion, and at the next regular session of the council, final steps will be taken.

For many years there has been a crying need in Carmel for a suitable town hall, but efforts in the past to secure one always have met with failure.

That the situation of All Saints' is ideal is the expressed opinion of many of Carmel's representative citizens. Here are some of the remarks heard around the business district:

Ernest Bixler, postmaster: "The only possible answer to an otherwise impossible situation."

Mrs. Marion Todd, Community Chest executive secretary: "I feel that the City of Carmel couldn't have done any better."

Mrs. Elizabeth Cass, P. T. A. president: "The location seems perfect and the buildings could not be used for any more appropriate use."

Mayor Fred Godwin: "Never before has Carmel had such a golden opportunity."

Other similar remarks have been made by dozens of residents, including Mrs. Talbert Josselyn, Herbert Heron, Eben Whittlesey, Hugh Comstock, Chester Lewis and members of the city council.

Paul McKinstry, businessman: "I believe that if they carry out the same type of construction when they remodel the interior as is now represented by the exterior, the buildings will be very suitable for Carmel as a town hall."

Large Number Of Entries Received For The Dog Show

The largest number of entries in the history of the Del Monte Kennels Club is expected for the 21st all-breed dog show, which takes place September 22 at the Mission Ranch Club. A large number of local entries has been received, and there will be about 40 dogs listed from this area.

Deadline for submitting entries was midnight, Tuesday, but because of the large number of last minute applications, the deadline was advanced to yesterday.

The showing will take place in the center area of the club, with obedience classes to be separate from the regular judging.

The Mission Ranch Club will serve, besides the regular luncheon, a buffet lunch in the Barn.

XMAS MAILING DATES

The period from October 15 to November 1 has been designated as the Christmas mailing period for parcels addressed to overseas personnel, it was announced this week by Postmaster Ernest Bixler.

Sporting NOTES

BY GEORGE MOSOLF

RECORD FOOTBALL TURNOUT

The coaching staff at Carmel High School was pleasantly surprised last Tuesday afternoon, when 58 candidates answered the call for football. From this group will come the players who will man the Varsity and Lightweight teams. Although most of the boys are without football experience, they have exhibited an aptitude for mastering the fundamentals of the game and should provide plenty of competition for their CCAL opponents.

With two regulars from last year's fine team as a nucleus, Coaches Mosolf, Dawson, and Grandee hope to mold a team which will be able to stand the rigors of a tough seven-game schedule. The opening game of the season finds Gustine High School providing the opposition at the Carmel field. This game will be held on September 28th, at 2 p. m., and will be the initial outing for both teams. Gustine has continually been one of the outstanding teams in the valley league and has won or played for the Northern California B Division Championship several times.

Carmel High's gain was some other school's loss when Bill Cross, Bud Pittman, and Dick Taplin transferred to Carmel. Bill hails from Honolulu and played halfback at the Punahou high school. Bud and Dick attended Ceres and Modesto highs, respectively, last year and were linemen on the football teams at those schools. Another transfer now sporting the red and gray is Vance Lowrey, who is making a bid for the center position on the varsity eleven. Carmel High welcomes these boys and hopes their stay is a happy one.

Varsity lettermen answering the roll this year are: Vic Harber, Rod Dewar, Owen Greenan, Bob Bell, and Lew McCreery. With a year's growth and 10 extra pounds these boys should blossom into finished gridiron performers this season.

In order to give more boys a chance to play football, a Lightweight team is being organized this season. This team will play a five-game schedule and will be composed of Freshmen and Sophomores for the most part. Letter awards will be given for boys who play the necessary quarters on the Lightweight team. Harold Grandee, a veteran of 15 years' coaching experience, will direct the activities of the Limited team.

VARSITY FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

With only three weeks to prepare for their first game, the Carmel High School coaching staff is taking all precautions to insure their charges will be in the best possible condition. Plenty of calisthenics, running, blocking, and tackling is included in the daily workouts. The 1946 schedule finds the Padres playing four games at home and three in the opponents' camp. Of the seven games played two will be night contests—Gonzales, there, on October 11th, and Menlo, at the Monterey stadium, on October 18th.

The schedule follows:

Saturday, September 28—Gustine, here, 2 p. m.

Saturday, October 5—Campbell, there, 2 p. m.

Friday, October 11—Gonzales, there, 8 p. m.

Friday, October 18, Menlo, Monterey stadium, 8 p. m.

Saturday, October 26—Gilroy, there, 2 p. m.

Friday, November 1—King City, here, 2 p. m.

Monday, November 11—Pacific Grove, here, 2 p. m.

At the CCAL meeting on September 16th, a schedule will be drawn up for the Limited team. An attempt will be made to schedule the Limited games on the day before the Varsity travels, which will insure Carmel football fans continuous pigskin contests throughout the season.

MACK-CROCKER TAKE SMALL SWEEPSTAKES

The small sweepstakes golf tournament at Cypress golf club Monday was won by Harold L. Mack and Dr. Chas. Crocker. In match play against par they were eight up. Tied for second place at six up were the teams of Chas. M. Daniels-Paul S. Winslow and John B. Morse-Francis Shea. Other players were Mrs. George Coleman and Mrs. Frances A. Elkins, five up; Samuel Morse and Harry C. Hunt, also five up.

RAIN-CHECK RESULTS
By F. SHEA

Mrs. Frances A. Elkins and George Coleman were the winners of the weekly Rain-Check golf tournament at the Cypress Point Club last Saturday, winning a play-off from Harold L. Mack and John B. Morse. Each pair had finished 5 up in the match-play-against-par contest at the end of 18 holes, and two additional holes were necessary to determine the victors. Last Saturday's was one of the smallest Rain-Checks ever held, only two foursomes competing.

Other players: Mrs. George Coleman and Charles M. Daniels, 4 up; Stuart Haldorn and Francis Shea, 3 up.

Civic-Minded Residents Undertake Big Project

The hustle and bustle around First and Lobos streets is almost appalling in its intensity these days. Trucks and scrapers executing "squads right and squads left," crews of men operating a Mexican drag-line, (pick and shovel to you) and foremen growling orders in their best top-sergeant manner. All-in-all, a driving dusty scene reminescent of a Pacific island landing.

But in this case it is Beauty that is establishing a beach head. In a sudden upsurge of community spirit, the Palmers of San Francisco, the Odoms of Los Angeles, Miss Nano Lawler and Mrs. J. M. Joyce of Modesto, and the Ralph Ments, all property owners and residents in that small section, decided to groom their grounds.

"I know the results will be gratifying," said Mrs. E. W. Palmer, "and in keeping with the surrounding area, but heavenly days, if they could only operate without making so much dust."

The major part of the work is being handled by Floyd Dillon and John E. Dolman of the Carmelo Grove Nursery.

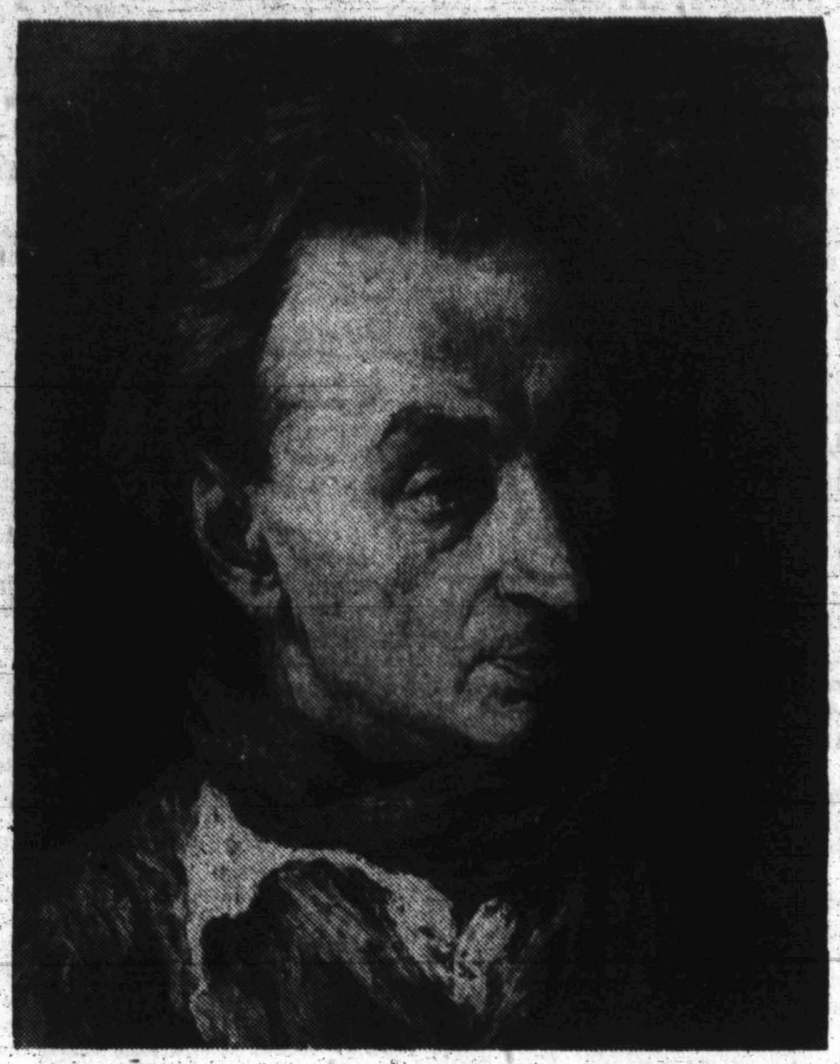
ARTIST OF THE WEEK—

Fourth of a series devoted to artists of the Carmel region . . . whose creative work has made it an art center of the West.



Martin Baer's portrait of the Prince Zenon Chorpszczo, an intimate friend of Pilsudski of Poland, and a brother-in-law of Mrs. Janina de Liszkowska Baer.

MARTIN BAER

An artist's work is no isolated phenomenon. It is an integral part of his life, as inseparable from daily existence as his mind and spirit. His art is strengthened, made whole by his awareness—a philosophical, mystical, inner awakeness to the universe. As with the great masters, his approach is impersonal; only a withdrawal of self makes possible great art in any era. An inbred ego may ruin what began as a painting conceived with some integrity—yet executed in a blur of personal conflicts. True art is the result of spiritual surety. * * * Too briefly, this is an intimation of Martin Baer's feeling toward art and living.

His frank acceptance of several "off-the-trail" beliefs may, at first acquaintance, appear complex. Yet it is quickly evident that in this artist's comprehension—as in his painting—there is a rare and tested clarity. His warmth and understanding of art is but one facet of his understanding of life, and springs, primarity, from a complete faith that an artist has at his command the wisdom of the universe . . . if he would use it.

He claims no school—though his earlier enthusiasms stemmed from Cezanne, El Greco, Tinteretto. Quite alone, Martin Baer has created an ideal, a goal of his own. He has brought to life the olden, golden qualities of serenity and simplicity. He has created in painting, perhaps, something once expressed by James Branch Cabell, who devoted his life to "writing beautifully of beautiful happenings."

At the Galerie Jeune Peinture, Paris, he met the girl who was to be his wife, * * * Janina de Liszkowska Baer, a young lady who had been assisted in establishing the art centre by Mogdigliani. Their present quiet studio in Carmel was preceeded by the acclaim accorded one of the world's fine artists in France, Europe, New York, Chicago, and San Francisco. Caught during the war in the catastrophe of French surrender, Baer lost his collection of large canvases in Paris, and all his belongings.

Virtual prisoners for a year, they escaped—through the intervention of Washington—to Lisbon. In New York at long last, he began again with an exhibition of smaller paintings. Today his work is prized by international collectors, the New York Museum of Modern Art, Mrs. O. H. Guggenheim's collection, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dale, and many other private galleries.

Space does not permit the adventurous story of his years with his brother in the oasis of the Sahara Desert. Today his paintings are flooded with the sunlight and color, and rich humanity which he discovered.

It is certain that the country has no painter like him, that he belongs not so much to one era as to the past and the future. His work is timeless. In Martin Baer, one man has harmonized his life and work—and become an artist.

To assist in bringing the growing influence of Carmel artists and their Carmel Art Gallery before Peninsula residents and their many friends, we are happy to sponsor the fourth of a series of sketches on painters of the region.

Dr. Bruno Walter Receives Great Ovation In San Francisco

(NOTE: Florence W. Parker, who kindly wrote this week's Have You Read column on Theme and Variations by Bruno Walter, has also written her impressions on hearing Dr. Walter conduct the S. F. Symphony Orchestra in two concerts.)

You asked for my impressions of the concerts I attended recently in San Francisco, given by Bruno Walter—the world famous musical director of the former Vienna State Opera.

This Musical Festival, given with the San Francisco Orchestra, was comprised of three programs. The first, an all-Beethoven program; the second, all-Brahms, and the third was of works of Wagner and Richard Strauss.

I attended the second and third concerts at the Opera House, which was entirely sold out on all three evenings. Among the throngs of people one heard a diversity of languages and noticed many interesting types. Beside me were two ladies who had lived long in Paris, and they related their experiences of 1938 when Dr. Walter was given a great ovation in that city and was made a French citizen as on the downfall of Austria he was without a country and papers necessary to carry on his professional engagements. As a French citizen he was able to move freely as guest conductor in non-Nazi European countries.

In Bruno Walter we have not only a great musical leader but a great man of lofty principles—utterly devoted to his Art and convinced of his own sacred calling and in the power of great music to lift suffering humanity to a higher state of consciousness.

In Bruno Walter's manner of conducting there is a certain magnetic power which enfolds every player in the orchestra with both the conductor's thought and the subject matter of each work played while the audience is lifted to a fuller understanding of the work thus presented, for there is a union between the conductor's thought, the composer's message and the receptivity of the listeners.

Nothing else matters! It is a great moment—one is under a magic spell—everything is good for at the heart of the Universe is joy—ah—what healing power lies in such great music under such a leader as Bruno Walter—who, knowing the necessity of such power released to the world, makes it possible for him to survive all suffering and difficulties in his love for humanity and in the service of so great a cause. And makes him ready to give of himself through music as long as he can wield a baton.

That the public was fully aware of the greatness of the moment was especially apparent when at the end of the last concert the orchestra rose with a flare of trumpets and together with the standing and effusive audience gave their beloved conductor a rousing ovation.

Of one thing all those who know this great man can be certain—he will never be forgotten for he has blazed a trail for all real lovers of great music to follow, at least in their hearts and their thoughts, and that means a great deal, doesn't it?

Bruno Walter Festival, September 3rd, all-Brahms: Tragic Overture Op. 81; Var. on Theme by Haydn Op. 56; A Song of Destiny Op. 54, with Municipal Chorus of S. F.; Symphony No. 1, Op. 68.

September 5th: Prelude to Meistersinger, Wagner; Siegfried Idyll; Funeral Music from Gotterdamerung; Prelude and Love Death from Tristan and Isolde; Don Juan Tone Poem, R. Strauss; Death and Transfiguration, R. Strauss.

NO BUILDING PERMITS

No building permits will be issued in Carmel from September 23 to October 14, inclusive, Building Inspector Floyd Adams announced this week. He will be on vacation duing that period, and he urged that anyone who contemplate building make arrangements with him by September 21. Carmel Teachers Return After Summer Vacations

Not only have junior's teeth been checked, and Susie's skirts lenghtened so they could start off with a sigh for school with just the good old summer days just a remembrance, but from the looks of what their teachers have been doing, it appears there might be some sighs of rememberance from teacher's desk too.

There are five new teachers added to the faculty at Sunset School: Jean Stanbridge, who is the music teacher, and Mrs. Beatrice Rea, art instructor. Miss Stanbridge and Mrs. Rea have found a home on Santa Fe and Pico. (lucky gals). Mrs. Mable Kerr will teach the fourth grade. She spent the summer in San Francisco. Mr. Orville Rogers, who will teach the seventh grade, was released from the service in May. He attended San Jose State College, and after the Summer Session he and Mrs. Rogers wen to Shasta Dam and Plumas County on a fishing trip. The new third grade teacher, Virginia Nye spent a few months with her husband who returned from England. Major Nye returned to Germany in Feb. and Mrs. Nye then visited her mother in Santa Monica.

Teachers returning to Sunset are Miss Lela Becker, the kindergarten teacher. She attended the summer session at San Jose State and then visited at the Santa Clara home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Alstan. While there she had, among guests visiting her, Miss Winifred Regier. Miss Regier, who teaches the second grade, also attended the summer session at San Jose State.

Mrs. Marjorie McCausland, who has the first grade, reports that she summered in Carmel with the usual number of summer guests.

Jeanne Staffelbach, fifth grade teacher, had quite a motor trip. She drove through Yellowstone Park, Black Hills, South Dakota, stopped for a visit in Illinois, and the Ozarks in Missouri and Arkansas. She drove home by way of the Grand Canyon and Boulder Dam.

Mrs. Edna Lockwood, third grade teacher, spent part of her summer in Pasadena with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lockwood. She then spent the remainder of her summer with her husband in Clear Lake Highlands.

Mrs. Katherine French, who teaches the second graders, spent her summer right here in Carmel, and she too had several guests. Also spending her summer in Carmel was the first grade teacher, Miss Constance McLaughlin. She did go, the latter part of the summer, to Stockton, to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McLaughlin.

Mrs. Ann Uzzell, sixth grade teacher, spent six weeks at her mother's ranch in Hanford, California. She then attended a training conference in San Francisco for Proposition No. 3.

The sixth grade teacher, Harriett Norman, spent four weeks at the McKenzie Ranch, Feather River Country. From there to Lake Tahoe for three weeks, and the grand finale—a week's shopping spree in Oakland.

Dorothy Geiselhart, who holds the reins on the fourth graders, spent ten days in New York. From there she chaperoned a group of girls to Camp Vega at Augusta near Echo Lake, Maine. Miss Geiselhart acted as a counselor and also as the director of craft studies. Another Carmelite was counselor at the same camp too, Miss Eleanor Hart. After spending a week travelling through Maine, Miss Geiselhart boarded a United Air Lines plane on September fourth and had breakfast the next morning with her parents in San Jose.

Mrs. Dorothy Russel Skelley held down the fort at Sunset this summer with her summer Nursery School. She did manage a few days before opening Sunset again to go to the March Field as the guest of Colonel and Mrs. Leon W. Gray. Colonel Gray is in command of a squadron of P-80 Jet Flyers. Colonel Gray had also the first plane in the Bendix Jet plane air race.

Hi Chatter . . .

By MARY GREGORY

Carmel High commenced its new fall term bright and early Tuesday morning—well early, anyway, but the only bright spot as far as we students were concerned was that the sun failed to shine to remind us of days gone by.

The enrollment reached 286 Tuesday with 59 new students among us. Of this number 47 were eighth graders, 15 of whom are new.

Along with the expected repainted walls and finished desks, we found awaiting us a new fence bordering the girls' field, the scoreboard finished, and most treasured, curtains and a Juke Box for the cafeteria. (Incidentally, our first chance to really try it out—lunch times don't count—will be the "Welcome Dance" tomorrow night where we will expect to see everybody.

We have adopted a new plan this year, which promises to be very effective. It consists of two complete schedules, the regular one of six sixty minute periods, and an "Activity Day" with seven fifty minute periods. This additial period can fall any time during the day as assemblies and extra-curricular activities demand. It is planned to have these "Activity Days" about three days a week.

Six additions make the faculty now sixteen members strong. Besides these six, Miss Wright and Mr. Minear are new girls' and boys' vice principals. Mrs. Crosby is the new — and most welcome — manager of the cafeteria, and the office boasts a new assistant in the body of Mrs. Shaw.

"The Sheriff Wants Me . . ." Author Gets Wits Scared Out of Her

or was I charged with disorderly conduct? Well, whatever it was, that was living and not vegetating. All jumbled up with these flashes, my mind was busy for my defense. The most important issue was, of course, what shall I wear the day of the trial? Oh, for a pair of nylons. The newspapers are filled with pictures of glamorous culprits. The alluring Gun-Moll's chief defense seems to be her beautiful legs. Without nylons I'd be sunk. Would I have time to get a permanent? Who was the best lawyer on the peninsula? Maybe I had better get a big shot from San Francisco.

All this may sound screwy, and indeed it was screwy. But the point is that these thoughts did flash through my mind. I seemed to be proving the scientific theory that there is no such thing as the innocent subconscious. We are all guilty of something. I was right back there re-living my freshman days. I had been summoned to the dean's office. Rushing across the campus I was preparing my alibi for heaven knew what. I had ceased to wonder what the charge against me might be. I had forgotten all about warrants and proper legal procedure. One fact took the spotlight. I had tangled with the law. The sheriff wanted me and the sheriff does not go in for pranks. I was to appear in Superior Court for TRIAL! (Big of them, I thought, to make it Superior Court instead of Police Court.)

I was riding melodrama with an open throttle. I was heroine and villain all rolled into one. And then, my bubble burst. I don't think I enjoyed being brought down to earth, back to the status of plain citizen, in good standing. I was advised to read the document slowly and carefully to the very end. I did. I was summoned to Superior Court all right, but not as culprit, for after the word "TRIAL" (that had scared me to death), was the inconspicuous word "juror." I was to serve as trial juror.

So, from "Kippy the Gun-Moll" I became "Kippy the Girl Juror." I won't need those nylons now. Oh, well.

WINS AWARD

Elizabeth Armstrong, of Carmel, recently had a good idea for floral decorations. She sent her idea into Sunset Magazine, and as a result, she has won a cash award. Her suggestion has been published in the "Good Ideas" department of the magazine's September issue. The prize-winning suggestion was an unusual way to construct a candle holder for a birthday cake, using a garland of flowers.

Motion pictures showing in Carmel during February, 1918, included: Fanny Ward in Betty to the Rescue, Ann Pennington in The Rainbow Princess and Marguerite Clark in The Valentine Girl.

An item in the February, 1918, Pine Cone reads as follows: "The price of fresh fish should be looked into by our local U. S. Food Administrator. Thirty cents for fresh salmon is outrageous."

M. P. C. C. Women Hear Interesting Talk On Influence Of Churches

"If there is another World War, the churches will be to blame." Quoting this statement by General John J. Pershing after the first World War, Mrs. Eva Gamble pointed out the influence that people attribute to the churches, in her talk before the Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women last Friday at the Church of the Wayfarer. Mrs. Gamble, who lives in San Jose, is president for northern California and Nevada of the national organization, United Council of Church Women, and this was her first official visit to the Peninsula.

That these are critical times is shown by the belief of sixty-two percent of the persons questioned in a recent national poll that there will be a third great war within a few years. In the moral breakdown of the world nations do not trust one another and tensions arise. It is necessary to make friends and neighbors even of the former enemy countries and build up an understanding between diverse peoples. "There is no way out, only a way up," said Mrs. Gamble, and Christianity must lead the way. It has been said that the secret of America's greatness is in her churches, and if there is unity of purpose among them, much can be done.

The serious food shortage in the world greatly increases the problem, said the speaker, for the rest of the world is looking to America for help. The wealth of the U. S. is also her weakness, for self-indulgence, crime, juvenile delinquency, and divorce have increased very materially during the war years. The country spent for liquor in one year $7,800,000,000, or more than for all Christian work combined. Enough wheat was used in one year for manufacture of liquor to have fed two million persons, and though the government cut down somewhat the amount allowed for making liquor, much was still allotted for such use.

Unfortunately, said the speaker, religious instruction of children has fallen off in recent decades. There are in this country twelve million children under fourteen years who have had no religious instruction. This lack shows in the treatment given to immigrants and minority groups; the church people are leading in fair and friendly attitude toward aliens. There are now forty state councils and 1,200 local councils affiliated with the United Council of Church Women, the national organization, and they can make their influence count for peace and justice in the world.

Solos by Thomas L. Griffin, accompanied by Mrs. Griffin at the organ, who also played the incidental music for the service, were very much enjoyed by the audience.

Mrs. Jonathan M. Rigdon, one of the chairmen for publicity in the September drive for funds by the Friends Service Committee to replace the work of UNRRA in feeding the world's hungry when the latter organization is dissolved, spoke to the council at the luncheon meeting in the social room of the church. She told how forty million persons in war areas have died of starvation or diseases resulting from malnutrition since the war ended, and more millions are on the border of starvation. Two-fifths of all French children are tubercular, and similar conditions exist among other nations. Only adequate supplies of the protective foods can save these children. Americans can support the formation of an international organization to distribute food in the devastated countries, said Mrs. Rigdon, and urge congress to send a delegate to the International Food Organization which will study the world supplies and give advice on plantings and distribution. We can also allot our surpluses to areas needing them and do without some foods which are so necessary to undernourished peoples. The U. S. has the highest food consumption per person in its entire history, and can well afford to forego some of its huge harvests for others.

Mrs. Ramsey Benson, president of the local council, was in charge of both the luncheon - business meeting and of the two o'clock general meeting. Mrs. Tom Douglas, president of the Women's Auxiliary, was in charge of the luncheon tables and service of tea and coffee. Mrs. Leola Marshall gave a resume of classes at the M. E. M. conference held last month at Asilomar. The next meeting of the Council of Church Women will be held in November at the Hayes Chapel in Seaside, with Rev. Wellington Smith as pastor.

Color Photography To Be Taught Here

Benton Shropshire, an expert in the field of color photography, will conduct a series of lessons in the art of taking, processing and printing your own color pictures. Where could anyone find more beautiful material for color pictures, than right here on the Peninsula? And to learn to take your own, process them and print them, is the dream of all photographic fans. Here is the chance to do just this. First meeting of this class will be Monday, September 23.

Mrs. Tucker also will continue the regular Thursday evening classes in photography and promises a lot of new things in store for those attending these classes.

Carmel P. T. A. Will Meet On Tuesday

The Carmel P. T. A. will hold its first monthly meeting of the school year on Tuesday, September 17, at 3 p. m. in the lunchroom of Sunset School. All parents and teachers are invited to attend, as well as anyone in the community interested in the welfare of children.

The program projected for the year by the P. T. A. consists of a study of the varying responsibilities of the home, the community and the school to the children, and the way in which these responsibilities may be carried out. At the September meeting a representative of the American Friends' Service Committee, will discuss the problems of child welfare in Europe. The latter part of the program will be occupied by discussion of plans for P. T. A. activities. Members of the audience will be urged to make suggestions about matters which need the P. T. A.'s attention.

NEW LAND DEVELOPMENT IN DEL MONTE FOREST NOW READY

BEAUTIFUL PEBBLE BEACH SUBDIVISION AT "THE TOP OF THE HILL" OPENS

In our long years of experience we believe this to be one of the most striking and important developments that we have ever handled.

The property lies inside the gate on the highest hill in the Del Monte Forest. It runs from the crown along the southern ridges, overlooking Carmel Bay, Point Lobos and the Santa Lucia mountains. It all has southern exposure and most of it commands beautiful views. The lots average 100 feet frontage. They are generous in size and yet are priced so as to be within the range of the individual of moderate means.

In this area, in order to secure the greatest satisfaction to all those who buy there, it will be necessary to limit houses or buildings of any kind to one storey and low pitched roof. There will be some exceptions perhaps but not where such a house would obstruct the view from other homesite.

The tract office is in the Gatehouse at the top of the hill on Highway No. 1 between Carmel and Monterey. A representative of the company will be glad to take you over the property.

Because of the great interest already shown, we suggest you visit the property at the earliest moment.

Loan Exhibition At Art Gallery Is Not Up To Usual Standard

By Nancy Lofton

The American Artists' Professional League was originally organized to supply its members with legal advice and to furnish much needed information about the chemical properties of various pigments, and in these two departments the organization has functioned well. Judging from the current loan show of the League now on exhibit in the water color room of the Carmel Art Association Gallery, the artistic standards of their exhibitions are not always so high. This may perhaps be due to the fact that many painters dislike to contribute their best work to travelling shows for fear of its being damaged by much handling.

The idea of loan exhibitions, which is a good idea, is to bring into the community competent work by painters from other localities in order that we may see what painters are doing elsewhere. The gallery is to be complimented for bringing in loan shows, and although the general level of this show is unexceptional there are several canvases which stand out. Maurice Logan's "After the Storm" is vigorous and skillfully painted. Burton Boundey's "Ice Cutters" is solidly painted with a sympathetic understanding of his subject. Paul Schmitt's "Late Sun" has a clear-cut freshness about it and Dorothy Davis Jones' "Road Side Fruit Stand" has about it a disarming freshness.

Gallery goers will recognize the names of Ferdinand Burgdorff, Burton S. Boundey, Thomas McGlynn, Edda M. Heath, Paul Mays, William Silva, William Ritschel, John O'Shea, Howard E. Smith, Davis Schwartz, L. E. DeJoiner, I Maynard Curtis, all of whom are represented in the show. Other artists, not so familiar to Carmel, in the League show are: Francis Todhunter, Dorothy Davis Jones, Florence Earnist, Paul Williamson, Joseph Bennett, M. Y. Burrill, Vivian Carter, Clyde Scott, Innocenzo Daraio, Mark Hall, V. K. Schuelter, Joan Thoren, John Garth, Will Frates, Jean Turner, Hans Jorgensen, Maurice Logan, Emerson Lewis and Albin Kern.

Festival Chorus To Start Rehearsals

Starting next Monday evening, September 16, at 7:30, the Bach Festival chorus will go into rehearsal for the 1947 season. Gastone Usigli, conductor for the Bach Festival, will direct the rehearsal, which will be held under the auspices of the Carmel School of Adult Education. It is Mr. Usigli's intention to start the chorus with music other than that of Bach, for variety and interest in the various vocal styles.

All regular members of the chorus are expected to be on hand, and new singers will receive a cordial welcome. Report at 7:30 next Monday night.

Musical Art Club To Begin Autumn Series

The Musical Art Club will commence its autumn and winter series of programs with a vocal and violin recital at the Carmel High School Music Room on Sunday afternoon, September 22nd, at 3 p. m. The program, the first to be presented by the club since the summer vacation, will feature Thomas Griffin, baritone, accompanied by Mrs. Griffin, and Michael Mann, violinist, of Mill Valley.

Mr. Griffin, a newcomer to the Peninsula, who made many friends in this area during his sojourn here on military duty, has come to make his home here and is interested in the promotion of choral work. He was trained in the Westminster College choir at Princeton, New Jersey, and studied under Franz Hoffman of Los Angeles. Mr. Griffin has been soloist with the Westminster Choir and also sang the lead in a number of performances of the contemporary opera, "A Tree on the Plains," by Ernst Bacon, produced at Spartanburg, South Carolina, in 1942. He also sang solo opera roles in several music festivals in North Carolina in 1942 before his entry into the service. During his military service he organized a large chorus in the Philadelphia Service Depot, later taking his chorus on tour through Army hospitals and to war bond rallies.

Mr. Mann also has many friends on the Monterey Peninsula, where he has often been a visitor. He has appeared before a number of groups in the Bay area and also before clubs in Salinas, and has been a member of the Bach Festival orchestra. He is the son of Thomas Mann, the famous author, and is well known to Musical Art Club members, having appeared before this group a number of years ago.

WINS SADDLE

The saddle, which, purchased from Boots and Saddle Shop, was donated by the Tri-County Horsemen's Association, was won by Helen McDonald, of Paso Robles. The proceeds from the tickets sold went to the benefit of the association.

This month saw the first copies of the new magazine, "Tri-County Horseman," put out by the association. This first edition was dedicated to the Monterey County Sheriff's Posse, of which Judge Ray Baugh is president. Judge Baugh is also an associate editor of the new magazine, as is Frank Flynn, proprietor of Carmel's Boot and Saddle.

An interesting sidelight is that Miss McDonald, on being informed that she held the lucky number, hurried to Carmel to collect her prize. With a group of friends she took the saddle back to Robles and presented it to young Dick McKenzie, Monterey High School student.

The life drawing and portrait classes will meet twice a week, beginning on the same date, with Lee Randolph instructing.

The pottery and ceramics classes have been so popular that the students will be divided into two groups, beginners and intermediate students. The classes meet at Mrs. Margaret Lang's pottery workshop on Abrego street.

Basic subjects for those who have not finished school will be offered in both the elementary and high school groups, and these will include regular school curriculum.

Other subjects to be offered will be ground training in aeronautics, flying training at the Monterey Airport, machine shop, draughting, woodwork, driving, seamanship and navigation at the Coast Guard base, trade apprentice classes. In the recreation group, badminton and handball classes will meet Monday and Wednesday evenings.

John F. Shelley Speaks At Carmel Democratic Club

"The population of California has increased three and a half millions since the beginning of the war," said John F. Shelley at a meeting of the Carmel Women's Democratic Club last Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Paul Low. "We asked these people to come to California to aid in the production by means of which we won the war. It is our duty to make them good citizens . . . to maintain the democratic principles established by Franklin D. Roosevelt, a man the full impact of whose loss we are now only realizing. Our government has an obligation to the lowliest of its citizens just as surely as to business and to foreign policy.

"California was the first state of the forty-eight to enact workmen's compensation and child labor legislation. Having pioneered in such progressive measures, it should not wait for federal legislation on health insurance."

Mr. Shelley, who is a candidate for the office of Lieutenant-Governor on the Democratic ticket, is serving his second term as State Senator. He was a member of the California delegations to the National Democratic Conventions of 1940 and 1944. At the latter convention, he served with Senators Truman and Mahoney on a subcommittee which redrafted the party platform. He has fought for all forms of progressive social legislation such as the bill to curb loan sharks, improvement of the state colleges, fair employment practices act, development of coastal harbors, further protection for veterans and adequate compensation for school teachers. If elected, Mr. Shelley declares his intention to continue working with Governor Warren on all liberal issues.

Association Plans Annual Meeting

Plans for the annual meeting of the Monterey County Tuberculosis and Health Association were formulated at a meeting of the executive committee of the association held Friday night, September 6, in Monterey.

With Peter J. Ferrante, acting president, presiding, the committee decided to resume the custom of a dinner meeting. Because of the war this type of meeting was abandoned and the last was held in 1943.

The meeting will be held Saturday night, October 12, at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club. The speaker of the evening will be announced later. All members of the association are invited to atend.

can inspire the deepest fear, subdues the other. But man is never conquered—never.

As realistic and, at times, as pessimistic as I am, I still believe there are men who "consider beauty important." Many who still have "ideals" which are the finer because they are maintained from choice and not fear.

As for the "automobile to keep us from home," it also TAKES us home. Would you do without it because with it great harm is being done? May as well do away with electricity because it is used as a weapon of death.

"... radio to keep us from thinking?" For a man who wishes to think, it is a tremendous boon. Should we discard the opportunity to hear Toscanini conduct an hour of Bach glory because some ninny uses the same instrument to bray like a jackass?

One big trouble that ordinary citizens or spectators not actively engaged in ruling, leading or fleecing his fellow men, suffer with, is an over-active gland somewhere in our makeup, that oozes disappointment. We have set a high and shining goal for our leaders to attain. And that's as it should be, for the honest as well as dishonest, among them may be kept more in line by our demands upon them. If only we could stem our disappointment when they fall short! Can't we realize that our leaders are no different from ourselves? And that you and you and I, given the same job, would fall short of expectations? Shall we not try to understand that human frailties bar perfection in the simplest matters. And periodically, just back up and get a fresh start?

Of course we spectators must be practical. We still must write to our senators—lambaste them good and proper; write the editor! and take over his job now and then; stand on the corner by the post office and fix the world. But in it all and within ourselves, let's not give up to that most debilitating emotion—disappointment.

As for the atom bomb, I can't seem to get too hysterical over its astounding possibilities, even though all the fantastic things may be true. Remember it was hurled at us at a terrible climax. Without warning we were deluged with its awful consequences. I've the notion that had we been warned in easy stages, that we'd have taken it in our stride.

Did not the marvelous Marie Curie fear catastrophic results should radium be released to an unscrupulous mankind? Do you remember the historic telling of the fears of man when they heard that in the fabulous land of spices, there was a deadly thing called gunpowder? I have no doubt that in a few hundred years from now, people will read our writings, authentic and otherwise, and smile at our puny efforts to solve our great problems.

And too, somehow, mankind will have survived. We may even have outgrown the automobile and the radio. Perhaps we shall tuck a small vial of atomic energy in the heels of our shoes, or under our arms, and away to Paris for an evening at the Follies, on to Tokio for a look-see, and back to lovely Carmel in time for the Bach Festival!!

And for the ponderous question, "What in hell ails us human beings?" I think it answers itself when we say "human beings." Has not each recorded generation asked this same question? Of course, and each succeeding generation will keep on asking it until the entire human family becomes angels and devils. We learn more by error than example.

Upon serious contemplation, when I ask this question, I think it is that the world is in the throes of growing pains.

MRS. ALICIA L. ROONEY,
Scappoose, Oregon.

Charis Weston Makes Research Trip To Eureka

(Note: The following article, written by Paul Speegle, appeared in a recent issue of the Humboldt Times, Eureka, under the caption, Scattering Remarks of Interest—Past and Present, and it concerns a visit made there during August by Charis Weston.)

Most everyone has heard the bromide "like father, like son," but so far as we are concerned we have never heard the expression "like father like daughter." But that last saying applies very well to a young woman who is visiting this part of the state on a very important stint or maybe we would call it a mission. The young person is Charis Weston, daughter of the late Harry Leon Wilson, famed author whose writings have been read by thousands of people and have made a splendid addition to the history of California. The popular author who did most of his work while residing in Carmel, Monterey County, provided the environment out of which his daughter began a career which has already "clicked" and which promises to go on and on.

It was our privilege to meet and converse with this young writer and we gave her the interesting fact that her father's greatest story, "Ruggles of Red Gap," was filmed right here in Eureka. When told of this her eyes opened widely and she seemed to be most pleased to receive this information. She has great admiration for her father and his work. For months on end he was a contributor of short stories to the Saturday Evening Post and his offerings were looked forward to by the readers of that magazine. In the later years of his life he wrote two of the plays which were produced at the annual Bohemian Grove gatherings of the great and near great of California.

For several days Mrs. Weston has been stopping at the Travelers Hotel here and sallies forth to cities, towns, highways and byways, in search of material which she will weave into a story of northern California. She has been given several months by her publishers in which to complete her work and have the copy into their hands for early publication. From Eureka she is visiting many parts of California's coastal area before going into the Sacramento valley to gather more material and cover her assignment within the time limit.

We found her a very friendly person willing to give and receive and we hope to be able to some day profit by our interview with her and do a little "book writin'" ourselves. Maybe we will find it possible to get together some history that will be of value in the times ahead. Our contribution to booklore will have Humboldt county, its cities, town and hinterlands and the interest people that make up its population, as the locale. When the spirit moves we'll get the good old typewriter going and see what can be evolved from the accumulation of facts about this region during the time that the white men and women have made it one of the most attractive spots in all the world. We'll let you know when we get the book into the hands of some publisher who may find it worthy of publishing. We've always been sorry that some of the best informed of our pioneers failed to leave the record of what they saw and encountered in the early days, and hope that whatever of interest we may have stored away in our "think tank" may be made available for those who like to know intimate things that do not get into print. We'll try to remedy at least a part of that, so be listening.

Carmel Elementary Expenditures Told

Carmel Unified elementary school district's average total current expenditure per pupil of $137.38 for 1944-45 was more than the $105.94 median or midpoint expenditure for the 40 school districts of 450 to 550 elementary average daily attendance in the state, California Taxpayers' association said today, making public the second section of its annual study of elementary school expenditures.

The district's $86.38 expenditure per pupil in average daily attendance for teachers' salaries was more than the $70.07 median expenditure for teachers' salaries by the districts in the same size group.

Days Before Yesterday

By Beth Ingels

What was going on in Carmel ten years ago this month? What were people doing and thinking here in those days before Hitler's troops started marching through Europe, when the WPA was in operation, when Roosevelt had not yet begun his third term? A study of the Pine Cone files for September, 1936, reveals the following:

Everyone in town turned out for the carnival and fair at the Forest Theatre over the Labor Day weekend. (Why can't we have events like that any more?) An Old Forty-Niners' Country Store was conducted by Marion Carr and Joe Catherwood; an auction of merchant-donated articles was held; a dog show took place (no pedigree necessary) and dancing took place in the evening to the music of Allan Knight's orchestra.

A surprised deliveryman for the Carmel dairy found a note in a milk bottle one morning, with this message. "Dear Carmel Dairyman: Kindly fill the dish in the garage with our milk for the cat, as we are going out of town for a few days. Also, leave the garage door partly open so the cat can get in. Many thanks."

A story in the September 11 issue tells that Harry Barris, one of America's foremost song writers and author of I Surrender, Dear, Lies and Little Dutch Mill, had been signed to appear with Bob Kinney's orchestra at Hotel Del Monte, and that a feminine vocalist, Loyce Whiteman, had also been signed to appear with the band.

Don Blanding first came to Carmel ten years ago and told a Pine Cone reporter that he intended to build a "Vagabond House" here, because "he finds here the mountains, the forest, the sea, with the desert not too far away . . ." all his special loves and big cities, which even poets can't afford to ignore, within reach. In the same issue, Margaret Mitchell's Gone With the Wind is reviewed, and the reviewer expects it "to gain in popularity."

Remember the Salinas lettuce strike? The September 18 issue contains the following story, quoted here in part: "About 15 Carmel citizens answered Sheriff Carl Abbott's call to arms Tuesday morning, as violence broke out in the Salinas lettuce strike area. Mobilization of Carmelites began early in the morning, following the American Legion mobilization call. Shortly before 10 o'clock, a call was received at the police department from Sheriff Abbott, who stated that he had a young war on his hands, and asked Carmel police to assist him in rounding up deputies for service in the strike area. A gas gun and several boxes of tear gas shells, purchased by Carmel for the police department two years ago, were furnished to the sheriff's office at his request for arms and ammunition."

The Bal Masque was for several years an annual event on the Peninsula, and the 1936 party was one of the brightest, most amusing in a long series of cleverly-planned get-togethers. "A week from tomorrow the much heralded annual Bal Masque of the Carmel Art Association will get underway. The huge dining room at Hotel Del Monte will be ablaze with color reflected from massive canvases painting by America's leading artists. On the stage will be a bevy of beautiful girls from Hollywood in new and daring routines. On the dance floor will be 1,200 invited guests in clever and original costumes. For them it will be the gayest and most sophisticated party of the season. But for members of the Carmel Art Association it will have a deeper significance. To the artists it will be the culmination of three weeks of intensive preparation and the means of carrying on the work of the association. Were it not for the proceeds derived each year from the Bal Masque, it would be impossible for the Carmel Art Association to keep its doors open to the public without solicitation of funds. While men whose names stand at the top of the art world are putting finishing touches to the decorations, noted authors in the village are taking time off from their work and writing skits for the show."

COAST-BORN

Give me a slope of ice-plant and sea-aster
Far from brown deserts wavering in sun!
Give me green caves where spindrift is the master,
Not the dry clefts where chuckawallas run!
Give me dark rocks with homebound seagulls crying—
Ravens may haunt the bone-white borax sink!
Give me cool shreds of velo loosely flying,
A dim sun balanced at the ocean brink.
I want no crimson silhouetted warning
Of unchecked heat behind a blackened crest;
I would awake to find a misty morning
Plucked from the cloud that shields Poseidon's breast.

—Marcus Lytle

IMPROVIDENT

As maidens loosening banded hair, reveal
The profligate display of its bright health,
So does a tree in Autumn shake her leaves
To spill in disarray her abundant wealth.

But trees in Winter, standing stark and chill
Are like old sentinels, austere and cold,
Frowning displeasure on the spendthrift ways
Of trees whose lavish tresses still are gold.

—Grace Sayre

Like a word
Often seen and seldom heard,
Signs say to you
That summer's through.
. . . Summer's over,
The yellow leaves,
The ragged garden
And unkempt trees,
A wet wind dripping
Against the eaves,
These and a thousand things beside,
Secret and scattered from pods burst wide,
Are signs for you
That summer's over . . . summer's through.

—Louise Pontokoff

FOR A REFUGEE CHILD

Tend her with the hands of Anne,
Saint Anne, whose ways were dear
To her
Whose son He is.

Tend her tenderly,
As Anne would do,
For all the wounded world of love lies pierced through,
In the eyes of this pale child who looks at you.

—Kathryne E. Scoville.

SOUNDLESSLY AS SHADOW

Once, a bird fallen
As winter tears, as "no . . ."
Was flight between my hands,
Was sudden snow.

But swiftly, blind eyes
To dark, to far seas fled,
And soundlessly as shadow
The great gull lay dead.

—Kathryne E. Scoville

Have You Read . . . ?

By Florence W. Parker

(A review of Theme and Variations by Bruno Walter)

Here is an astonishing musical record of the last half century from the life story of one of our more gifted and beloved conductors, who, having reached his fiftieth anniversary of constant musical activities, has given the world one of the finest sketches of our times and of his own experiences.

Here, spread out before us, we find Art in all its forms in full bloom in all the capitals of Europe, as well as on this side of the Atlantic, and a great many of the famous men and women on both continents find their places on the canvas of Dr. Walter's recollections. The author shows always a fine discrimination in his choice of material, as also a wonderful insight as to spiritual values in the scheme of things, so that each individual appears to the reader as a portrait beautifully portrayed.

What I find most striking in his book is expressed in the preface, which gives, perhaps, the key to both the book and its author. I quote: I have preserved the unshakable conviction that man's spiritual accomplishments are vastly more important than his political and historical achievements and so . . . I venture to record my life because it has served music's timeless power and beauty . . . and the preface ends with the words: Napoleon is dead, but Beethoven lives.

Bruno Walter's book speaks for itself for he is the theme and the ever-changing scenes of life are the variations.

No short review could possibly give more than a slight indication of the contents so rich and varied, for the author is a man of wide and universal interests as regards music literature, and whatever conduces to the general uplift of humanity.

Dr. Walter's constant travels as guest conductor took him to all the capitals of Europe, and later, to America. His book teems with all kinds of interesting anecdotes and rare descriptions of persons, places and scenes, always with a fine power of language so that we cannot peruse such a book-document, in fact—without keen enjoyment or without gaining an added wealth of knowledge, maybe, even, wisdom (according to the reader's responsiveness, of course.)

I think most people associate Bruno Walter's name with opera-drama-Vienna, Munich, but certainly with Salzburg, the birthplace of Mozart, whose music has found a rare interpreter in Dr. Walter. As every true music lover knows dear to his heart is that beautiful old town nestled among the mountains and woods, Bavaria, and enjoyable indeed are his poetic descriptions of all its wealth of nature's gifts in his memoirs.

Dr. Walter was closely associated with Gustav Mahler in Vienna, whose lofty ideality speaks through his many symphonies and other great works known more widely to the world since his passing, largely through the performances inaugurated by his friend and co-worker.

It may astonish many readers to discover that most of the great artists in Europe stood firmly at their posts during the recent war, realizing the potency and need of great music to stem the rising tide of destructive forces sponsored by the fanatic Nazi regime. Dr. Walter describes some of his experiences while conducting in the midst of chaotic conditions. He survived miraculously, at least physically unharmed.

Bruno Walter has been known for many years to American audiences, as conductor at the New York Metropolitan Opera, the Hollywood Bowl, and as guest conductor with all the foremost orchestras of America.

How little can here be mentioned, considering the gigantic achievements of a lifetime devoted to music and his fellowmen everywhere by such a great soul, whose autobiography I am venturing to draw to your attention. May you enjoy and treasure as much as the author of this review did, Bruno Walter's new book, Theme and Variations.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

The subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, September 15, is "Substance" with the Golden Text from Isaiah: "Wisdom and knowledge shall be the stability of thy times and strength of salvation: the fear of the Lord is his treasure" (33:6.)

The following citations are from the sermon:

Psalms 73: 25, 26: "Whom have I in heaven but thee? and there is none upon earth that I desire beside thee. My flesh and my heart faileth: but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion forever."

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "How true it is that whatever is learned through material sense must be lost because such so-called knowledge is reversed by the spiritual facts of being in Science. That which material sense calls intangible, is found to be substance. What to material sense seems substance, becomes nothingness, as the sense-dream vanishes and reality appears" (p. 312.)

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

"Building for Tomorrow" will be the sermon theme by Dr. James E. Crowther on Sunday morning at the Church of the Wayfarer. The theme is suggested by the amazing growth of our community, in the past and for the future, as revealed by the report of the planning survey of the Carmel Unified School District. Margaret Sherman Lea will play organ selections as follows: "Sing to the Lord," Erb; "The Lord Is My Shepherd," Cain; "O for a Closer Walk with God," Foster; "Christ Hath a Garden," Diggle; "Hallelujah, Amen," Stainer. Rally Day will be held in the Church School, which begins at 9:45. The Adult Bible Class is at 10:00, taught by Prof. Charles E. Corbin. The Church Service is at 11:00. Visitors are cordially invited.

Mrs. Elis Beaton Attends Meeting Of Delta Kappa Gamma

Mrs. Elis deCelles Beaton, French teacher at Carmel High School, attended Stanford University summer session, taking work in the French and Art departments. Professor A. Guerard gave the French lecture course on Victor Hugo. The classes in life drawing and oil painting were given by Professor Victor Arnautoff, who painted the mural in the Pacific Grove post office.

Mrs. Beaton was a delegate to the national convention of Delta Kappa Gamma, society for women in education, held at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco, August 25-27. She is president of the local chapter. With her were two other members of the chapter, Mrs. Lillian Downey, educational consultant for D. C. Heath and Company, and Dr. Luella Hall, professor of history and dean at Salinas Junior College. The convention was attended by several hundred women representing the 27,000 members belonging to chapters in every state. The banquet which closed the convention was addressed by Dr. Aurelia Henry Reinhardt, president-emeritus of Mills College, and national honorary member of Delta Kappa Gamma. Her subject was the Contribution of Women to the Pastwar World.

Montgomery St. Skylight Runs Bufano Article

An interesting little weekly magazine or newspaper came the Pine Cone's way this week. The Montgomery Street Skylight is its name, and reading matter in it is concerned chiefly with Bay area artists, writers and such. Emerson W. Adams is its editor and publisher, while Robert Dunavon is managing editor. The Monday, Sept. 9, issue contains the following story on Beniamino Bufano, S. F. sculptor:

BUFANO ACTS UP AGAIN!

Those of us who know the sculptor, Beniamino Bufano, San Francisco's little ball of enigma, have learned to expect almost anything from him. At the Art Commission meeting August 28th he disappointed no one by voting against the very thing he has plugged during the past several years.

At the meeting the City Fathers entered into an agreement with the Committee for Municipal Art to stage the much discussed "Open Air-Indoor Art Show and Festival" to be held in the Civic Center Plaza from October 17th to the 20th.

The fifth resolution passed was "to authorize use of the balance (of the Art Show dough) to add distinguished works to the collection of the Art Commission." Which means that a sum close to $4,000 will be spent each year to buy local artists' works for the city from the annual Open Air Art Show.

When the commission voted on this resolution, Bufano's was the one dissenting vote!

Among the resolutions passed: (2) To engage the services of Charles Surrendorf as Director. Fee: $500."

"(3) To retain John G. Grace, architect, to design and supervise installations. Fee: $500."

Electricity works hard in the modern home. And you put it to work in every room in the house. That's why house wiring today must be better, more complete . . . Adequate now and for the future.

Adequate Wiring gives added convenience, too. For example, when there are too few outlets, your furniture must be placed not where it looks best but where the few outlets are. Also one must disconnect a clock or radio to run the vacuum cleaner.

Insist on complete, modern Adequate Wiring in your new home. Look for it in your house plans and keep it there. Don't cut down on your house wiring. You'll be sorry later if you do.

American Legion

At their meeting last week the American Legion Post No. 512 received the reports of their delegates, Ed Leslie and Everil (Mrs. Carl A.) Kludt, on the state convention held recently in San Francisco. Among topics reported on were: Housing for Veterans, Child Welfare and Juvenile Delinquency, Boys' State, and Rehabilitation of Veterans. An important resolution passed will be the backing of a raise in pay for school teachers. It was reported that there are a million more children in California schools than six years ago, with only a third as many teachers.

Everil Kludt was elected at the state convention as an alternate delegate to the national convention. The Auxiliary will hold their convention at the same time. It will be held in San Francisco, September 29th to October 4th. Members of both organizations are urged to send their pre-registration fee to: The American Legion, National Convention Bureau Committee, Room 226, Veterans' Bldg., San Francisco 2, California. Many convention attractions have been planned, and those sending in their fee ahead of time will receive $17.50 worth of tickets on registering in San Francisco.

Commander Childers wishes to remind members that since the purchase of their club, the club rooms are now open every Saturday and Monday nights to the Legionnaires and members of the Legion Club, their families and guests.

Warren Knapp, entertainment chairman, urges members to be present at the next meeting to help in the plans for the first party of the season which is to be held soon.

At Home On Casanova

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilson have left their home in Berkeley to spend the next two months in their home here on North Casanova.

Sun Hampers Hope

Bob Hope's pursuit of his favorite brunette has been somewhat hampered by the Peninsula sun. After repeating a scene several times because the sun would hide as soon as Hope started to emote, Mr. Hope was heard to mutter as he gazed upon the clouded sky, "That's the grandest thirty second sun I've ever seen!"

Last week representatives of the Monterey Peninsula press were luncheon guests of Paramount Studios on the location of the latest Hope picture, "My Favorite Brunette." They were also able to watch a couple of scenes being shot. The locale of the story goes from San Quentin to San Francisco to the Seventeen Mile Drive. Many shots are filmed on the Cypress Point Golf Course and also the fabulous Fagan house. Hope's favorite brunette is—guess!—Dorothy Lamour, and Mr. Hope is aided and abetted by such well known players as Peter Lorre, Lon Chaney Jr., Charles Dingle, John Hoyt, Willard Robertson, Ann Doran and Frank Puglia, who plays a dual role.

Elliott Nugent, who is directing the picture, hopes to have it finished this week, as he is opening a play in New York with Robert Montgomery which needs his presence as soon as possible.

While sitting on the set waiting for the sun, we learned that Mr. Hope had shot a 66 on the O'Donald Course at Palm Springs. Mrs. Hope and children flew in Thursday week and they attended the 49er-New York Yankee game in San Francisco as the guest of Dan Topping. Mr. Hope thinks it would be great to live here for three or four months of the year and he hopes to play in the Bing Crosby tournament in January.

An interesting sight was the sound recording truck. Mr. Herman Lewis, the sound technician, took us to the sound control platform on the set, and showed us where they catch the sound. (Incidentally they no longer use the old ear phones, but these new ones are molded to fit the individual's ears, much the same principal as used in the hearing aids, and they almost completely obliterate all outside noises.) Then the sound goes by cable to the truck where it is filmed. I couldn't begin to fathom what I was seeing, so merely bowed my head to Marconi and the rest of the boys. Peter Lorre told us an interesting sidelight as regards the filming and cutting of sound. He said when cutting the sound film (you know it comes out little lines on the side of the film) the technicians can even pick up syllables by seeing these lines.

Our thanks went to Mr. Curtis who is in charge of local arrangements, the La Ribera, who served the delicious lunch, and Mr. Al Jermy, permanent publicity man, who proved a wonderful host and guide.

Fall Meeting

The fall meeting of the Church of the Wayfarer was held last Monday evening with a record attendance of 115 at the supper. The preparation of the meal, and organization of its service, was skillfully supervised by Mrs. Thomas Douglass. At the head table, as guests of honor, were 14 of the girls who recently attended the Youth Fellowship Institute at Monte Toyon. Each, in a few words, told of the various features that helped them most. After reports from the various departments, a happy evening came to a close with a song fest.

Next Sunday will be Rally Day for the Church School at 9:45. The upper room classes will hold their worship exercises in the sanctuary prior to their class work. The high school group will be reorganized under the leadership of Dr. Crowther. The morning sermon at 11, will have as its background the challenging facts of the planning survey of the Carmel Unified School District, with the theme, "Building for Tomorrow."

Report to people who are waiting for telephone service

More than 324,000 telephones have been added on the Pacific Coast in the first full year since the war. During the first half of 1946 we added telephones almost twice as fast as ever before.

Still, there is a tremendous job yet to be done. The Pacific Coast is continuing to grow rapidly. New applicants for telephone service have been pouring in at double the rate a year ago.

But we are doing our best to catch up. Millions of dollars worth of new equipment is on the way.

You may be certain that we will bring you your telephone just as soon as we possibly can. Thank you for your patience.

After seventeen years behind a camera, Mr. Hudder of THE BEAUX ARTS PHOTOGRAPHY SHOP, on Lincoln and Ocean, should be able to do something special with photographs, and that's exactly what he does. His work is capable and artistic and varied and also modestly priced. His pictures of children catch the brightness and quickness of children's faces, and in his portraits of older people he catches the dignity and beauty of faces full of living. If you want to be made up into a special package, Mr. Hudder can glamorize you with lights and shadows and a shaggy rug to lean on. If you want a fine portrait make an appointment with Mr. Hudder at THE BEAUX ARTS PHOTOGRAPHY SHOP.

The suede cloth lounging robes in the SILVER THIMBLE, on Dolores south of Ocean, are the most comfortable looking robes we've seen around. These robes come in wine and pink and blue and they're warm and soft and washable and will be mighty welcome early on a cold morning. If you yearn for something a little more fetching, the negligee and gown ensembles at the SILVER THIMBLE are made for what the ad writers like to refer to as "intimate moments." The negligee, made of a soft rayon sheer, has a wide skirt to float behind you as you walk and long full sleeves gathered into a buttoned cuff to show off your dainty hands. Both the gown and the negligee have lace insets, across the bosom and in the sleeves of the negligee. Whether you choose one on white, pink or blue, you'll look quite delectable in it.

FRISBIE'S FURNITURE STORE, on Dolores near Eighth, has several redwood carts which answer perfectly that constant need in every home for an occasional table. These carts are of polished red wood, beautifully made by a Carmel craftsman, and since they are on wheels they can be any place at all—say before a fireplace for a light supper for two, or in the patio for luncheon. They are sturdy enough for a typewriter or for writing letters or working anywhere, and they fold up into a handy package for storage, but if you have one in the house you'll be using it, not storing it away. The wood and the workmanship in these table carts are both very fine, and the tops have been treated to make them waterproof and liquor resistant.

Nellie Bly had nothing on Mrs. Mildred Hiehle, who makes a grand circuit of the United States four times every year in her promotion work for Ann Haviland, who offers "everything for the body beautiful." We saw Mrs. Hiehle in DOLORES PHARMACY this week and after talking with her we came away with a great desire to be beautiful all over. Most cosmetic lines stop and start with the face, but not ANN HAVILAND, whose preparations, incidentally, may be purchased on the Peninsula exclusively at DOLORES PHARMACY. The Ann Haviland preparations won the cosmetic packaging prize last year awarded by Beauty and Fashion, the trade journal of the cosmetic industry, and the packages are beautiful, but what is in them is more important. Take bath preparations, for instance. With Ann HAVILAND soap and bath oil you will have a bath to make Poppaea swoon with envy. The Ann Haviland soap is French-milled and wondrously perfumed and the bath oil will soften and perfume your bath water until it feels like scented silk. This bath oil contains one of the few water soluble oils and as you bathe the softening oil restores a youthful bloom to your skin, reducing skin dryness and inducing a fine feeling of well-being. After the bath, which is now out of the necessity class and well into the luxury category, you may rub only a few drops of the same oil from your head to your heels, and instead of just a skin you'll be complexion all over. With ANN HAVILAND, at the DOLORES PHARMACY, you'll find the only complete bath luxury line on the market. We won't even mention the ANN HAVILAND perfumes, made delectable and lasting with basic oils imported from France, but we might quote the Haviland promise: "Everything for the woman who would carry a man's heart in her hand."

CASA MUNRAS HOTEL in Monterey is gradually unfolding a grand scheme of redecoration and rejuvenation. Paint in the patio, light and luxury in the lounge, and now an exhibition of six pictures by Elwood Graham, one of the outstanding painters on the Peninsula, in the lobby. These six pictures of Mr. Graham's are a foretaste—and a very fine foretaste—of a large group of pictures to be exhibited in the CASA MUNRAS HOTEL, through the courtesy of the Pat Wall Gallery of Modern Paintings, in Monterey. Take time to see the pictures when you go to the CASA MUNRAS for luncheon, dinner or cocktails, or if you just want to come in and see the pictures alone, that's all right, too. The pictures are in the lobby and you may come in to look at them whenever you wish.

STEAK is a wonderful word to think about. Think about PORTERHOUSE, or T-BONE, or RIB, or MINUTE STEAK. Saturday night is STEAK night at HILLYER'S COFFEE SHOP, on San Carlos south of Ocean, and what could be a better subject for meditation than steak surrounded by crisp french-fried onion rings and french-fried potatoes and sauteed green tomatoes? From five till eight Saturday night HILLYER'S COFFEE SHOP will set before you your choice steak, the only food that could possibly be better than french-fried onions.

That new pavement on Eighth Street between San Carlos and Dolores will lead you straight to the door of the PRODUCE DEPARTMENT of THE CARMEL DRIVE-IN MARKET, so after you've deposited the children at Sunset School, go round the corner and there you'll find parking space and a whole valley full of fruit and vegetables. MR. PERIERA, of the PRODUCE DEPARTMENT of the CARMEL DRIVE-IN, receives his produce fresh and crisp from Carmel Valley farms. His bins are full of gold and green acorn squash, Carmel Valley corn, crinkly green chard, carrots, radishes, lima beans, and tomatoes, which are at the peak of their season now, being a special variety of Carmel tomato which ripens late to a deep golden red for September eating.

The new shortie-coats in HOWARD'S DRESS SHOP, on Alvarado Street in Monterey, come in a variety of delicate colors to make you look smart but sweet. There's a soft blue coat in HOWARD'S with tiny silver buttons shaped like roses and over your dress or suit this coat will warm you with a sense of pride in your appearance. Pink, champagne or blue, your short coat from HOWARD'S will go with you proudly—and you may have your coat, equally smart, in black or brown or check, also, if you go to HOWARD'S.

This anticipated meat shortage isn't worrying Thor Hellum, of the LA RIBERA DINING ROOM, because he, with great presence of mind, has made some mysterious arrangements, and you'll continue to find excellent meat, including steaks, at the DINING ROOM of LA RIBERA. Mr. Hellum wears a reminiscent smile at the memory of the past ten days, during which he has been rising at five-thirty in the morning. It was worth it, he reports, to prepare morning coffee for Miss Dorothy Lamour and her entourage who have been here on location and feasting on Mr. Hellum's cuisine meanwhile.

There's a crisp and jaunty air about the two-piece suit dresses of checked woollen with velvet accents in THE COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOPS, on Alvarado Street in Monterey. These come in misses' sizes and they're as smart as paint with details like faceted jet buttons, little velvet collars, and smoothly fitted jackets. One model, in a regular Shepherd check, has neat little triangular insets of black velvet at the yoke and little black velvet cuffs on the long bloused sleeves. There's another model in a Hound's Tooth tweed with a slim velvet vest, and a third version with a bellhop jacket with a tiny velvet collar. Details, styling and materials all combine to make this group of suit-dresses a treasure-trove for the girl who wants to be smart and warm while she works or studies.

Don Blanding, long a familiar figure in Carmel, is returning to the Village on October eighth and ninth. Each volume of his work is eagerly awaited by a large audience here, and during his coming visit to Carmel he will be at both SPENCER'S HOUSE OF CARDS and THE VILLAGE BOOKSHOP, on Ocean Avenue, to talk with his friends and autograph copies of his new book, "Today Is Here," to be published September 24. Mr. Spencer is taking orders now for autographed copies of Mr. Blanding's new book and during his stay, if you don't find him at SPENCER'S you will find him at THE VILLAGE BOOKSHOP, while you'll also find a large stock of his previous books at either place. Mr. Blanding will be pleased to meet his friends and autograph your copy of his poems.

That breath of autumn in the air, faint though it is, is a reminder that heat is going to be a problem for consideration before long. Mr. Burke, at the CARMEL HARDWARE STORE, on Dolores, is one who can help you there, with his new coal oil stoves and electric heaters. The electric heaters in the CARMEL HARDWARE STORE are of the reflecting type, 1,000 watt and 1,320 watt, but the PERFECTION OIL HEATER caught our eyes. Mr. Burke calls these oil heaters absolutely reliable, standard merchandise, the best oil heater made—and so they are, but the nicest thing about them is the wide glass band through which you can see the fire burning away. It makes you warm just to look at them.

Watch for the new Ford advertisements and a young lady therein wearing a handsome "coachman's" dress, a design commissioned to go with the new Ford and executed by Lynn Lester, of Western Fashions. This same "coachman's" dress has just arrived in MAXINE'S DRESS SHOP, on Dolores, where you'll always find excellent basic items for your wardrobe. This dress is a modern and smart edition of the ubiquitous coat-dress. Its material is a heavy strutter-cloth, cut in princess lines, with a nip to the waist, a swing to the skirt and great square flap pockets. It comes in green, melon, white and blue, accented with tiny gold buttons fore and aft. In MAXINE'S you'll find also a classic button-front dress in fine 100 percent wool challis in delectable colors.

KURKI of JOFRAN, a queen in her own right, is looking for a new home—a rather usual occupation of royalty these days. KURKI is an Afghan hound of the best lineage registered with the A. K. C. She is a magnificent animal and has already won a first place for best of her breed in her first dog show. She is one of the most intelligent of dogs, amiable and gentle, and has been trained to obey whoever manages her. Her light cream coat, now that she is past her first year of age, is showing that remarkable spunsilk softness, characteristic of the long Afghan fur. She is as handsome and pleasing a dog as can be, and the man wise enough to buy (how disrespectful the word sounds!) her will receive also her specially built dog house and platform. If you're interested in KURKI, see JEZEBEL'S DOG HOUSE, on San Carlos south of Ocean.

George Rosales, up at the CARMEL RESTAURANT AND FOUNTAIN, on the corner of Mission and Ocean, says he doesn't know where his meat for the weekend is coming from, but whatever it is he assures you it will be good. Since the meat course is in doubt at the moment, we might mention his Sunday desert—pumpkin chiffon pie. Now this IS a pie-pumpkin flavored with nutmeg and cinnamon and clove and then a dash of sherry. We hope your mouth is watering already.

The 21st Annual All-Breed Dog Show presented by the Del Monte Kennel Club comes off at Mission Ranch, Sunday, September 22, so you'd better begin final preparations for your dog's appearance on that day. JEZEBEL'S DOG HOUSE, on San Carlos, south of Ocean, has a complete line of grooming supplies for your dog, including the metal dog-rakes which have been difficult to find. JEZEBEL'S show leads will make your dog hold himself proudly when he wears one—with its long, light, round, leather length wrapped in gold at the collar and the handle. Every well-dressed dog should enter the ring wearing a show lead from JEZEBEL'S DOG HOUSE. THE DOG HOUSE is now offering a new service, too—bathing and stripping — so call JEZEBEL'S DOG HOUSE and make an appointment for your dog.

Cornflower sentiments are very commendable, but for the grand and noble gesture an orchid is the very thing. N. B. FLOWER SHOP, on Lincoln, south of Ocean, has an array of orchids to put a hopeful gleam in any woman's eye. There's a fabulous spray of SIX lavender catleya orchids at N. B. FLOWER SHOP that could say all any man needs to say to a woman—and lady slipper orchids—with a fly-away lilt to their petals—to give a lilt to a feminine heart. The butterfly orchids come in more subtle coloring, brown and yellow, and lavender gray—but all you need to remember is: ORCHIDS — N. B. FLOWER SHOP.

It's pumpkin pie we're having this weekend by courtesy of THE DOLORES BAKERY, on Dolores, south of Ocean. Mario's hand with pumpkin pie is gentle as a mother's, just a small dash of spice here and there, and as a result his pumpkin pie is light and luscious in color and taste. None of your squash pies, either. Mario uses only the best real pumpkin in his pie, with many good, fresh eggs, and much fresh milk. On your pumpkin pie from DOLORES BAKERY you may have whipped cream, if you wish, or you may have it plain, though there's nothing plain about a custom made PUMPKIN PIE by MARIO.

At FORTIER'S, on Ocean Avenue, you'll find the complete line of De Heriot toiletries and cosmetics. We like De Heriot's line. It doesn't throw the book at you, but uses instead the gentle power of suggestion. There's a subtleness and restraint in the De Heriot fragrances—La Premier, a carnation scent, fresh as a summer rain; Parma Violet, Wood Lilac and White Lace. De Heriot's cream cologne in any of the scents is completely delightful and it may be used as a body oil or a hand lotion, since its base is a soothing oil which softens and perfumes the skin. Perfume should be used on the skin instead of on clothing, as the skin warmth develops and enhances the scent, and De Heriot's cream cologne is ideal for this purpose. You may also have the De Heriot cologne in a clear version if you wish, at FORTIER'S.

Bolts and bolts of fine linen have arrived in PUTNAM AND RAGGETT'S, up on Ocean Avenue. This linen is ideal for embroidery, and any and all textile handicrafts. It comes in 36, 40 and 45 inch widths in white, off white and ecru. There's a fine Oyster Art Linen, a Bisso Art Linen in sheer ecru, a Sanforized dress linen, and heavy linen towelling with blue or red borders. All of it comes straight from Ireland, the home of fine linen, except the kitchen towelling, which grew in Scotland. You'd better busy yourself and make a large dent in your Christmas list with handmade towels, handkerchiefs, luncheon sets and table cloths made from PUTNAM AND RAGGETT'S fine linen.

Honeymooning Here

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith Dodge of Berkeley spent their honeymoon here recently at the Peter Pan Lodge. Immediately following their marriage in the All Saints' Episcopal Church in Palo Alto they drove down to Carmel.

Previous to her marriage the new Mrs. Dodge was Kathleen Hitchock, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Hitchock of Berkeley. Dr. Hitchock is the well known bone specialist. Kay graduated from Stephens College last year.

The bridegroom served as a lieutenant with the Marines, and on his discharge completed his schooling at Stanford. He is now enrolled in the Graduate School of Business Administration in Berkeley.

For her marriage the bride wore a two-piece navy dress with white trim. Her accessories were navy blue and her bridal corsage was of white orchids.

Kay's maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth Campbell of Berkeley. A corsage of yellow begonias complemented her gray suit. Serving his brother as best man was Clyde Arnold Dodge, Jr.

Following their honeymoon here the young couple returned to Berkeley, where they will make their home for the present.

Youth Fellowship Meets At Church

"Take your elbows off the table, Dr. Crowther," sang the Youth Fellowship Group impishly, at the Church League supper on Monday evening at the Church of the Wayfarer, and the pastor complied with mock chagrin while one hundred diners giggled or grinned at the antics of the tableful of youngsters. It was a lively and friendly crowd, the "largest ever," that sat down to supper promptly at 6:30, and then, table by table went to be served cafeteria style.

After the meal the junior high group who had gone to the institute at Monte Toyon for a week in mid-August told what they liked about the camp. The only dissenting note came over "having to get up at 6:30 in the morning." Those reporting were Marline Becar, Carol Bedau, Carol Hill, Carol Ann Smith, and Carol Timbers, with Mrs. H. A. Bedau as sponsor of the group. Next the high school girls told briefly the high lights of their experience at Monte Toyon the first week in September, sponsored by Miss Betsy Lull. They agreed that the mountain top communion on the last evening in camp was a memorable experience. Those reporting were Louise Harber, Betty Plaxton, Peggy Riker, Patricia Timbers, Jeannine Viljoen, and Joy Westcott.

Dr. J. E. Crowther spoke of the challenge to the churches made by the migrants, 100,000 a month, coming into California and the need to help the newcomers to find homes and friends in the state. In the reports of church activities special mention was made of the kindergarten church conducted during the Sunday morning service by Mrs. Blanchard Steeves with two or three youthful helpers, where the tiny folk are given a start in worship and instruction. The pastor announced the youth class convening next Sunday, rally day for the Sunday School, in the church office. He has secured the assistance for the year's program for young people, by Ted Fehring and John Farr of the high school faculty.

The bountiful supper enjoyed by everyone was prepared and served by Mrs. Tom Douglas, president of the Women's Auxiliary, and her helpers, including her husband and son Scott, Mrs. Hannah Hallen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson, Miss Etta Paul, Mrs. Mabel Hart, Mrs. Vieve Harber, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Follett, and Mrs. Helene Schuldt.

Officers of the League are president, James E. Crowther; vice-president, Charles E. Corbin; treasurer, Edward K. Neroda; secretary, Charlotte E. Morgan; executive committee, in addition to the officers, includes Durbin Sayers, chairman, and Mrs. Thomas Douglas, William H. Hamilton, Edna Lockwood, and Howard E. Timbers. Trustees are Henry F. Jurs, chairman, Alice Beardsley, Harry C. Hilbert, Daniel B. Leininger, Edna Lockwood, Alfred Matthews, and Charles T. Sweeney.

Heading various departments of the church are Mr. Hamilton, Sunday School; Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. Douglas; Leper work, Mrs. Edith M. Catlin; World Friendship, Mrs. Louise Grigsby; Communion, Miss Etta Paul and Mrs. Harvey Braunton; garden, Mrs. Beardsley; ushers, Mr. Sayers; reporter, L. Lucile Turner; auditing, Louis B. Sawyer; organist, Margaret Sherman Lea; sexton, J. M. Southwell.

Noted Lecturer Plans To Make His Home Here

Among newcomers to Carmel who plan to live here permanently are Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Carnson, who, at present, are house guests of Miss Kathryn Van Horne.

Mr. Carnson, an ordained minister of the English Methodist Church, specializes in presenting Mono-dramas on Biblical subjects. He will undoubtedly present readings in Carmel sometime this fall and using Carmel as his headquarters he will leave later on for a lecture tour to various parts of the country.

He began preaching at 15 years of age, and at 21 was already an ordained Missionary in China. He served in France in World War I and did Chaplaincy duties for five years in World War II. He has also had four years service in South Africa.

In the recent war he did much work with the U. S. 8th Air Force.

He is well-known in the United Kingdom as a lecturer on Biblical and kindred subjects and has specialized on Anglo-American Relationships.

Most of his ministry has been spent in London, and he has led Evangelistic Campaigns in both Anglican and Free Churches. Since 1938 he has had the Superintendency of wide town and country areas in the West and in North East London.

For many years Mr. Carnson was a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society and the Royal Society of Arts, and he has been a prominent member of the Author's Club and its Lodge in Westminister.

His writings are numerous; among them, three Chinese novels, an Historical Romance, several popular Biblical and Evangelical works; and now the three act Mono-Drama "Men of Galilee" with its accompanying novel of the same name; as also the compiled Gospel in Modern English, "Everyman's Gospel."

Mr. Carnson has developed a modern technique in the presentation of the Gospel. "Men of Galilee" is unique in that the author acts the whole play by himself, portraying about 25 different characters without the aid of stage setting, or variation of costume.

Psychology Study To Be Offered

Mr. John Westover, Principal of the Carmel Adult School, is planning to resume the afternoon class in Applied Psychology which was formerly conducted by the late Mrs. Clifton Williams. Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte has been engaged to lead this study, which will meet for the time being on Wednesday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock in Room 15 of Sunset School, although a change in this schedule will be made to suit the members of the class after it has been organized.

Mrs. Clairmonte has for many years been following the literature of applied psychology and related subjects. She will attempt to familiarize the students with ideas advanced by scholars who recognize that "Man the Unknown" is developing new mental faculties. Alexis Carrel, Gerald Heard and many other brilliant writers have called attention to the newly emerging evidences that evolution is now taking the form of growth in man's understanding. The class will take the attitude that through conscious effort mankind can better adjust to his true place in the universe. Discussions will be conducted from the practical basis in order that the talents of intuition, so faintly appearing, may be applied to the solution of daily problems. Anonymous requests for advice regarding the handling of practical difficulties will be taken up by the group the last half hour of each meeting.

Everyone is invited to contribute to the discussions or to bring questions which will stimulate ideas.
